COMMISSION ON THE FUTURE OF WORKER-MANAGEMENT RELATIONS TO MEET

The Commission on the Future of Worker-Management Relations will meet Wed., Jan. 19, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Room N-3437 A-D, Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. Chairman John T. Dunlop, former Secretary of Labor, will preside.

Discussion will be on the legal framework of workplace employee participation plans covering a variety of issues.

There will be two panels. In the morning panel, the views of management will be given by Daniel V. Yager, assistant general counsel, Labor Policy Association, and Howard V. Knicely, executive vice president, TRW. The views of labor organizations will be presented by Judith Scott, general counsel, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and Larry Cohen, organizing director, Communication Workers of America.

The second panel, at 1:30 p.m., will offer perspectives of research organizations and academic lawyers and will include recent research reports on worker-management plans. Presentations will be made by Richard A. Beaumont, president, Organization Resources Counselors, Inc.; Eileen Appelbaum, associate research director, Economic Policy Institute; David Brody, professor emeritus of history, University of California at Berkeley; Samuel Estreicher, professor of law, New York University School of Law and Joel Rogers, professor of law, University of Wisconsin School of Law.

Both sessions will include discussion of issues among the panelists and between commission members and panelists.

The meeting will adjourn at 4:30 p.m.
