WBOT.5 Employers shall provide all legally mandated holidays, leave, benefits and bonuses, such as official holidays, annual leave, sick leave, severance payments and 13th month payments, to all eligible workers within legally defined time periods. In addition, all leave and bonuses shall be calculated correctly. (S)

Noncompliance

Explanation:

1. Factory had covered 110 employees under accidental and injury insurances; 40 employees under medical insurance, unemployment and retirement insurances. No employees were being covered by childbearing (maternity) insurance, as factory claimed that childbearing insurance has not yet been implemented by the local government. Factory provided waiver from local social insurance bureau on May 12, 2009. No contribution records for June and July were available for review. Factory management was not able to demonstrate the calculation method for the social insurance deduction and no deductions for employees were found on payroll for the social insurance premium.

2. Due to inconsistencies noted between time and payment records provided and other information and records obtained during the audit, auditors' actual status of wages and benefits could not be accurately verified.

Action Taken:

Representative and Auditing Consultant met with factory owner and manager to review.
1. Factory had enrolled 43 out of 66 employees in injury, medical, unemployment and pension insurances; only 16 workers were included under maternity social insurance. Factory provided waiver from local social bureau dated May 11, 2011, indicating that factory had enrolled 43 (which is 100%) employees under injury, medical, unemployment and pension insurances; waiver was valid from May 2011 until December 31, 2011. In addition, in payroll records provided, there were no deductions found on employees' payroll for social insurance premium.

2. Inconsistency noted on provided time record along with payroll record, other information (e.g., worker interviews), and production-related records gathered during audit. For instance, worker interviews and production-related records showed that workers were working on various Sundays and Saturdays (e.g., August 27 and 28, 2011) and up to 11.5 or 12 hours a day for almost every night. However, corresponding time and payment records showed that workers were off on these dates, worked a maximum of 10.5 hours a day, and only had 2 days of night overtime were arranged a week. Hence, the time and payroll records provided were unreliable, and audit team could not accurately verify workers' actual hour works, wages compensation and benefits.

Wages, Benefits and Overtime Compensation: Deposit of Legally Mandated Deductions

WBOT.13 All legally mandated deductions for taxes, social insurance, or other purposes shall be deposited each pay period in the legally defined account or transmitted to the legally defined agency. This includes any lawful garnishments for back taxes, etc. The employer shall not hold over any of these funds from one pay period to the other unless the law specifies that deposits are to be made less frequently than pay periods (e.g., monthly deposits, weekly pay). If the law does not specify, then deposits shall be made before the next pay period in all cases. (S)

Noncompliance Explanation: Factory did not make the legal mandated personal income tax withholding and contributed the personal income tax to the respective bureau in accordance with prevailing legislation.

In any case where laws and the FLA Code are contradictory, the standard that provides the greatest protection for workers shall apply. Where provisions are lacking, employers shall take measures to reasonably accommodate matters concerning the payments of wages and benefits, including overtime compensation. (S)

Wages, Benefits and Overtime Compensation: False Payroll Records

WBOT.19 Employers shall not use hidden or multiple payroll records in order to hide overtime, to falsely demonstrate hourly wages, or for any other fraudulent reason. Payroll records maintained shall be authentic and accurate. (P)

Noncompliance

Explanation: Workers were paid above local minimum wage and OT hours were paid at 150% and 200% of normal rate as according to the law. However, due to finding unreliable records, auditor could not verify whether basic wages were properly calculated and paid to workers or whether workers were properly guaranteed with minimum wages and OT compensation.

Wages, Benefits and Overtime Compensation: Record Maintenance
WBOT.21 Employers shall ensure that all legally required payroll documents, journals and reports are available, complete, accurate and up-to-date. (P)

Explanation: 1. Factory could only provide payroll records for months April-July 2009 for review.

2. Factory was not able to provide attendance record for August 2009. Factory stated they can only consolidate the summary of attendance data on the pay date. Furthermore, their time record machines (fingerprint recording) were malfunctioning these days and they could only record attendance manually. Hours of Work: Time Recording System

HOW.6 Time worked by all workers, regardless of compensation system, shall be fully documented by time cards or other accurate and reliable recording systems such as electronic swipe cards. Employers are prohibited from maintaining multiple time-keeping systems and/or false records for any fraudulent reason, such as to falsely demonstrate working hours. Time records maintained shall be authentic and accurate. (P)

Noncompliance

Explanation: Various inconsistencies were noted during audits:

1. A second set of manual time records was collected from work floor. This set indicated, for example, that cutting section workers worked on various Sundays (i.e., June 7; July 5; July 12; July 26, 2009). However, corresponding time and payment records of workers showed that they were off on the aforementioned days.

2. Provided time records indicated that no workers had ever performed more than 3 hours of evening OT after April 2009. However, manual time records indicated that workers had at least worked 4 hours of evening OT on a frequent basis in June, July and August 2009. Information gathered from on-site and off-site worker interviews also presented discrepancies with information indicated on provided time and payment records.

Hence, auditors concluded time and payment records were unreliable and failed to accurately reflect workers' actual work hours and wages at the facility.

Plan Of Action: Use swiping time cards in lieu of manual time records to reduce inconsistency issue.

1. Inconsistency noted on provided time record along with payroll record, other information (e.g., worker interviews) and production-related records gathered during audit. E.g., worker interviews and production-related records showed that workers were working on various Sundays and Saturdays (e.g., August 27 and 28, 2011) and working up to 11.5 or 12 hours a day for almost every night. However, corresponding time and payment records showed that workers were off on these dates and worked a maximum of 10.5 hours a day and only had 2 days with night OT were arranged a week. Hence, it was noted that provided time and payroll records were unreliable, and audit team could not accurately verify workers' actual hours work, wages compensation and benefits.

2. Casual workers were frequently employed, and factory could not provide time and payroll records for review except for month of June 2011.
