HAROLD EUGENE ALSTON, pro se

BOARD DECISION AND ORDER

This matter comes to us on the exceptions of Harold Eugene Alston (Charging Party) to the decision of the Director of Public Employment Practices and Representation (Director) dismissing his charge against the New York City Transit Authority (Authority). The charge alleges that the Authority's president, Gunn, had written him a letter which violated §209-a.1(a) of the Taylor Law. The Director found that Gunn's letter does not in any way interfere with the exercise of any of the Charging Party's rights under that Law.

An incident occurred on August 14, 1986 involving the Charging Party, who is a bus operator for the Authority. This incident resulted shortly thereafter in a notice of disciplinary action taken by the Authority against the Charging Party. Gunn's letter of October 18, 1986 concerns this disciplinary action and sets forth his understanding. that the Charging Party failed to make a timely appeal of his grievance in regard to that action and that the appeal was dismissed. As a result, Gunn states that he considers the discipline final. Gunn's letter closes with a suggestion that the Charging Party should in the future follow the grievance appeals procedure available under the collective bargaining agreement.

In his exceptions, Charging Party asserts that Gunn's letter is based on a "lie" about his failure to appeal. It would appear that the Charging Party claims that he did not receive notification of the disciplinary action at the time that the Authority thinks he did and that his appeal should be considered timely. He asserts that Gunn's letter is based on someone having "lied" to Gunn about the facts of his failure to appeal. He claims that this "lie" may be an employer improper practice under the Taylor Law.

We agree with the Director that Gunn's letter cannot be found to interfere with the exercise of any rights under the Taylor Law. If the Authority has acted under a misapprehension of the facts or there is a basis to reopen the matter, the Charging Party's remedies lie elsewhere. Section 209-a.1(a) does not give us statutory authority to review the kind of issue regarding a disciplinary grievance procedure which the Charging Party appears to raise. It merely prohibits employer interference with, restraint or coercion of a public employee for the purpose of depriving the employee of the right of organization, and the related right to be represented by an employee organization. Assuming the facts alleged by Alston to be true, they do not, as a matter of law, constitute a violation of §209-a.1(a) of the Taylor Law.

ACCORDINGLY, WE ORDER that the charge herein be, and it hereby is, dismissed.

CASE NO. U-9045

DAVID N. BENTLEY,

Charging Party.

DAVID N. BENTLEY, pro se

BOARD DECISION AND ORDER

This matter comes to us on the exceptions of David N. Bentley to the decision of the Director of Public Employment Practices and Representation (Director) dismissing a charge which he filed against the City of Jamestown (Employer) and Local 418, AFSCME (Union). The charge alleged that each violated unspecified sections of the Act. On the basis of the charge and further clarification, the Director determined that the alleged facts do not state a claim either against the Employer or the Union.

Bentley's charge and clarification indicates that he has had numerous difficulties at work, including several accidents which he claims were caused by unsafe equipment. He also claims that his contact dermatitis makes it impossible for him to perform certain jobs to which he has been assigned. He asserts a pattern of harassment by the Employer by virtue of job assignments.
supposedly detrimental to his health and insubordination charges due to his refusal to perform those assignments. As against the Union, he charges that it has supported or failed to stop the Employer.

In his exceptions, Bentley reiterates his complaints against the Union regarding its alleged lack of action on safety matters and its alleged failure to represent him. The documents submitted by him as part of his exceptions, however, suggest that the Union has not refused to represent him but claims that Bentley has not cooperated with it. These documents also show that he may not in fact be cooperating because of his skepticism concerning its role.

Having reviewed the charge, the exceptions, and the documents submitted by the charging party, we find that the Director properly dismissed the charge. We cannot discern a claim that is cognizable under the Act.

ACCORDINGLY, WE ORDER that the charge herein be, and it hereby is, dismissed in its entirety.
