________________________________________

HELEN MCCONNELL, pro se

JAMES P. WELCH, ESQ., DEPUTY DIRECTOR FOR LABOR RELATIONS
(JAMES GORMAN of counsel), for Respondent

BOARD DECISION AND ORDER

On November 18, 2008, Helen McConnell (McConnell) filed exceptions to an interim ruling of an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), dated November 13, 2008, denying her request for the scheduling of a hearing with respect to an improper practice charge. On November 25, 2008, McConnell was informed that pursuant to §212.4(h) of the Rules of Procedure (Rules) she was not entitled to file exceptions to the non-final ruling without leave of the Board, but that her exceptions would be treated as a motion for leave to file exceptions. State of New York – Unified Court System (UCS) opposes McConnell’s motion for leave to file exceptions.

FACTS

UCS and the New York State Court Clerks Association (Association) are parties to a collectively negotiated agreement (agreement). Pursuant to the disciplinary procedures set forth in Article 23.2 of the agreement, the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge is responsible for both the issuance of a notice of charges seeking to discipline an Association bargaining unit member and the designation of the individual to conduct the hearing with respect to the disciplinary charges. At the hearing, UCS has the burden of proof to demonstrate incompetency or misconduct, and the employee is entitled to representation and an opportunity to present evidence. Following the hearing, the designated hearing officer submits the record and his or her recommendations to the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge. If the hearing officer recommends that the employee is guilty, the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge may impose one of the disciplinary penalties set forth in Article 23.4 of the Agreement.

On July 24, 2008, the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge issued a notice of charges against McConnell, pursuant to Article 23 of the agreement, seeking to impose discipline for her use of the UCS e-mail system to notify UCS officials about her grievances and complaints and for her failure to obey a directive from her supervisor to attend a meeting to discuss her alleged inappropriate e-mail use. An attorney for the Association filed an answer to the notice of charges, on behalf of McConnell, denying that McConnell engaged in misconduct. The answer did not allege that UCS's efforts to discipline McConnell were unlawfully motivated under the Act or any other provision of law.

On August 6, 2008, McConnell filed the present pro se improper practice charge alleging that UCS violated §209-a.1(a) of the Public Employees' Fair Employment Act (Act) by suspending her use of the UCS e-mail system and by issuing the notice of charges seeking to discipline her for alleged misconduct and insubordination related to her use of the UCS e-mail system.
In conjunction with her charge, McConnell filed two requests seeking injunctive relief, pursuant to §204.15 of the Rules, which were denied by the Office of Counsel on behalf of the Board on the ground that she had failed to demonstrate immediate and irreparable harm, resulting from UCS suspending her access to the e-mail system, warranting the grant of injunctive relief.¹

Following an initial review of the charge, pursuant to §204.2 of the Rules, the Director of Public Employment Practices and Representation (Director) issued a notice scheduling a September 26, 2008 pre-hearing conference before an ALJ with respect to the charge. In the notice, the Director informed the parties that the charge was being processed solely with respect to the allegation that the notice of charges is improperly motivated under the Act.

Prior to the scheduled conference, UCS filed an answer to the charge setting forth various affirmative defenses. Thereafter, McConnell filed a motion for particularization of the answer, pursuant to §204.3(d) of the Rules, which was responded to by UCS. Following the pre-hearing conference before the ALJ, McConnell filed a letter, dated October 17, 2008, with the ALJ requesting that the charge be scheduled for an immediate hearing. In response, UCS submitted a letter encouraging the ALJ to defer the scheduling of the hearing on the improper practice charge pending the outcome of the notice of charges issued against McConnell. In support of the proposed deferral, UCS argued that the underlying facts in the disciplinary hearing and the improper practice charge are intertwined. On November 2, 2008, McConnell submitted a second letter requesting that the ALJ schedule a hearing.

On November 13, 2008, the ALJ issued an interim ruling that the charge would not be processed to a hearing, at the present time, in order to await the results of the pending disciplinary charges. In his ruling, the ALJ reasoned that the operative facts in both cases are the same and the result of the disciplinary case may have an impact in the final outcome of the improper practice charge.

DISCUSSION

It is well-settled that the Board will not grant leave to file exceptions to non-final rulings, pursuant to §212.4(h) of the Rules, unless the moving party can demonstrate extraordinary circumstances. In the present case, we conclude that McConnell has established extraordinary circumstances that warrant the grant of her application to file exceptions to the interim ruling because, without the consent of both parties, the processing of the charge should not have been suspended pending UCS’s prosecution and determination of the disciplinary charges. In addition, we find that the parties have sufficiently argued the relevant issues to enable the Board to rule on the exceptions without further pleadings or briefs.

In her exceptions, McConnell states that UCS has adjourned the disciplinary case against her until February 3, 2009 and requests that the Board schedule her improper practice charge for an immediate hearing. In the alternative, McConnell requests the Board to order UCS to restore her access to its e-mail system.

Based upon our review of the record and our consideration of the parties’ arguments, we grant McConnell’s exceptions in part and remand the charge to the ALJ for further processing.

The ALJ issued his interim ruling prior to the Board’s recent decision in State of New York (Division of Parole)\(^3\) in which we determined various issues relevant to McConnell’s exceptions. In State of New York (Division of Parole), we recognized that the underlying facts in a disciplinary arbitration and a related improper practice charge may be the same, thus warranting deference to certain factual findings previously determined by a disciplinary arbitrator.\(^4\) We also reiterated that a conditional deferral dismissal of a charge alleging violations of §§209-a.1(a) and (c) of the Act to await arbitral findings is inappropriate.\(^5\) Finally, we noted that §205.5(d) of the Act explicitly prohibits the Board from granting deference to findings of fact or law made by a disciplinary hearing officer selected by the employer pursuant Civ Serv Law §75.\(^6\)

In the present case, the ALJ issued a ruling which suggests that he will not further process the charge until there has been a merits determination with respect to the pending disciplinary allegations against McConnell.\(^7\) Although an ALJ is entitled to considerable discretion under the Rules with respect to the processing of a charge,\(^8\) we conclude that the ALJ erred by suspending the processing of the charge, over the \(^6\) 41 PERB ¶3033, note 5.

\(^7\) Under the ruling, it is unclear whether the processing has been suspended pending the recommendations by the hearing officer or the determination by the Deputy Chief Administrative Judge.

objection of McConnell, pending the outcome of the disciplinary case. The ruling is functionally similar to a conditional deferral which, as we reiterated in State of New York (Division of Parole), is inappropriate in an animus case. Furthermore, the ALJ's ruling did not consider the issue of whether §205.5(d) of the Act may preclude the grant of deference to the disciplinary findings of fact in the present case where the hearing officer is selected by the employer.

For the reasons set forth above, we grant McConnell's exceptions, in part, and direct the resumption of the processing of the charge. Nothing in this decision, however, shall preclude the ALJ from setting a reasonable schedule, applicable to both parties, with respect to the further processing of the charge. Based on this conclusion, we do not reach McConnell's request for the Board to order UCS to restore her access to the e-mail system.

IT IS, THEREFORE, ORDERED, that McConnell's exceptions are granted in part and the charge is remanded to the ALJ for further processing consistent with our decision.
